

Young pupils pass GCSEs early

Fifteen-year-old Jessica Deane, Lucy Jenner, 14, Linlin Fan, 18, and front Rebekah Redclift, 12 MATT AUSTIN EE201006_MA2_06

STUDENTS at an Exeter school have been passing GCSE exams years before most pupils sit them.

Jessica Deane, a pupil at Magdalen Court School in Victoria Park Road, now has 10 GCSE at the age of 15.

Jessica has been taking the exams since she was 13 and will take six more GCSEs this year.

Lucy Jenner, 13, has four GCSEs after she took the exams four years early.

And Rebekah Redclift, 11, became the school's youngest pupils to pass a GCSE after she got a C grade in photography.

And 18-year-old A-level student Linlin Fan, from China, got 100 per cent in two modules on her maths exams and almost top marks in the rest.

Junior school headmistress Jacqui Jenner said Linlin had made excellent progress in English since she came to Britain a year ago.